LONDON, March 25.—The United States and Great Britain guaranteed a continuance of their parity in naval armaments today, just before these two nations signed the new London naval treaty, dropping restrictions on the size of the world's greatest fleets.

Declare Parity Principle

The chief American delegate, Herman H. Davis, and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden exchanged letters, each declaring the principle of parity, contained in existing treaties with regard to their two fleets, would continue to hold good after the old treaties expired and the new one goes into effect.

Authoritative sources said the pact would be made public after the signing this afternoon of the new London treaty.

The new pact, replacing the Washington naval limitations treaty of 1922 and the London treaty of 1930, limited neither the number nor the tonnage of the fleets of the three participating powers but introduced a new scheme for advance notification of naval building programs.

Hope To Curb "Races"

Delegates to the international conference which shaped the new treaty expressed hope that the program for exchanges of information would curb any sea armaments race for at least six years.

The new treaty also limited the sizes of the individual types of warships and inaugurated a building holiday for the larger type of cruisers.

American and British spokesmen conceded that the chances of a maritime limitation of navies had been dead for more than a year as a result of the denunciation of the Washington and London pacts by Japan, demanding full fleet equality with the world.

Seven Initiated By Trades Class Unit

Seven new members were initiated at a meeting of the Emerald society of the Salem Trades class Tuesday evening at Two Crest Inn in the Salem-Camfield rd. They are Earl Orashan, Martin Polder, Ray Himmelsbach, Charles Evans, Clarence Dickey, Jack Kerr and Edward Evans.

After the initiation a lunch was served by the club, followed by a short address of welcome to the new members by the president of the group, Lilburn Coffee.

A business meeting of the society was scheduled for April 14.

Red Cross Aided
By Hospital Group

Members of the Ladies auxiliary of the Salem city hospital have been assisting with the work of the Red Cross at the Memorial building. The auxiliaries held a special meeting at the Memorial building on Tuesday and voted to contribute $10 to the disaster relief fund.

Today a number of the members of the auxiliary have gone to Wellsville to assist in the work there where they intend to remain for three days.

Mrs. R. T. Holzbach is president of the auxiliary.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson

Responsibility of raising $3,000,000 sought by the Red Cross to finance emergency relief and rehabilitation for flood areas is in the hands of Admiral Cary T. Grayson, who is shown above examining a map in his Washington office outlining the stricken flood districts where 425,000 were left homeless and property damage exceeded $500,000,000.

SPRINGER PLANS
NIGHT RELAYSInvitations to be Mailed
Soon to More Than 50
Ohio Schools

If early indications are correct, there'll be a record turnout for the seventh annual Salem High School Night relays on May 2, Principal Wilbur J. Springer announced today.

The relays, which attracted close to 35 leading Ohio High schools last year, again are being whipped into shape. Invitations are to be mailed to between 50 and 60 schools in the near future, Springer, who is manager of the tourney, said today.

Cleveland Shaw won the meet last season after barely nosing out East Palestine. The relays were started in Salem in 1930.

All field events this year will be held in the lot to the west of Kelly stadium in order not to disturb the new turf within the stadium which has twice been seeded since last fall. The cinder track, however, will be used for all running events.

A few minor changes for the relays were announced today by Springer.

Among these, he explained, will be the lowering of the high hurdles from three feet, six inches to three feet, and the placing of hurdles 18 yards apart instead of 20. This is being done in accordance with practices elsewhere.

Another change will be the running of the shuttle relay event instead of the shuttle relays.

New schools are expected to register this year, Springer said today. More schools have taken an interest in track this year since WPA projects have provided them with stadiums and track facilities.

Rehearsals Pushed
For Play at School

Rehearsals for the Junior class play, "Smiling Through," are under way at the high school under the direction of Mrs. Mary Lanpher Harris, dramatic teacher.

The play, postponed from its original dates, April 2 and 3, will be presented in the high school auditorium, Thursday and Friday, April 23 and 24. It was announced today by Principal Wilbur J. Springer.

Elkton Inundated
By Swollen Creek

LISBON, March 25.—From two to three feet of water covered the village of Elkton near here today as a nearby stream overflowed its banks.

Water reached the first floor in some of the homes while the basements of practically all the houses in the villages had water in them. The National Brass & Copper Co. here has loaned a hand pump to the American Legion for use in removing the water from flooded homes in Wellsville.

Signal Is Fatal

COLUMBUS, March 25.—An 80-year-old man, attempting to signal with a shotgun to nearby relatives that he was ill, accidentally shot and killed himself in his home near Hilliards last night. He was William Connor.

URBANA, March 25.—Otto Howard, 67, Champaign county commissioner, died yesterday of a paralytic stroke suffered Saturday.

Plans Perfected
By Young People
For Spring Rally

The spring conference of the Young People's league of the Mahoning Presbytery will be held in the First Presbyterian church at Leetonia on Saturday, April 4. The theme of the meeting will be "Living For Christ."

Representatives from 42 churches in the Presbytery will be present. Attendance is expected to reach 200.

Rev. Boyd G. Cubbage pastor of the Leetonia church, said the conference will open at 11 a. m. The afternoon will be spent in the discussion of the theme under competent leadership.

A play in the evening will be presented under the direction of Miss Warner of the Westminster church, Youngstown. The conference is sponsored by the Leetonia unit, "The Presbyterian Forum," of which David Patterson is president.

WOMEN NEEDED
ON RELIEF JOB

Mending, Packing Clothing for Flood Area Is Big Task

Women are needed at Red Cross headquarters in the Memorial building to help mend and pack clothing collected for flood victims along the Ohio river.

Fifteen women have been busy sewing each afternoon but the appeal was issued today for others to help Thursday morning.

Efforts of the American Legion in their house to house collection last night produced seven truck loads of clothing. This must be prepared for shipment to the flood zone as soon as possible, hence the call for women workers. Forty-two boys and eight Scout officials aided the Legion in the clothing collection.

Seven truck loads of clothing have been sent to Wellsville and other Ohio river towns within the last week.

Cary T. Grayson, American Red Cross director at Washington, sent a telegram to local Red Cross officials today urging Salem to double its original quota of $450. More than this already has been done, as Salem has sent $1450 to national headquarters and $500 to the relief committee in Wellsville.

Jury Again Unable To Return Verdict

SAN JOSE, Calif., March 25.—David A. Lamson, once sentenced to death for the slaying of his wife, Allen, was confident of "vindication" today as prosecutors debated whether to try him a fourth time.

The former Stanford university press official heard a jury discharged after failing to agree on a verdict in his case.

"Naturally, I'm disappointed," said Lamson, "but I'm just as certain as ever that I'll be vindicated finally."

Mrs. Lamson, dark eyed and attractive, was found dead in the bathtub of her campus home, Memorial day, 1933. The state with tended Lamson struck her with an iron pipe, while the defense claimed she died of injuries received in a fall.

The discharged jury stood 9 to 3 for conviction, the same as the previous jury which failed to agree.

Great Miami and Sandusky Rivers Over Banks In Some Places

Ohio's flood picture became more menacing today with the Scioto, Mahoning, Great Miami and Sandusky rivers over their banks in places, and other streams dangerously high from long rains.

Residents of Warren, Youngstown and Niles feared the Mahoning would cause considerable damage, but not comparable with the destruction of the Ohio river last week.

Recover Bodies

Youngstown firemen found the body of an unidentified man in the water last night and Warren firemen recovered today the body of Clarence Anderson, 58, who drowned Monday in swollen Young creek.

Three of the four blast furnaces of the Republic Steel Corp. at Youngstown were banked as the water crept close. The water was two feet short of affecting operations at the Republic plant at Warren.

The state highway patrol predicted little serious damage from the scattered overflows and said

East Liverpool and Wellsville prepared for another flood today that might inundate many lowland homes where workers were cleaning up the debris left by the recent upsurge of the Ohio river.

Officials said the river at East Liverpool was rising at the rate of three-tenths of a foot an hour and that a stage of 35 feet might be reached by mid-night. Flood stage is 33 feet. The river at noon today had reached a 31-foot mark.

The river began rising last night.

they probably would have little effect upon the Ohio river. However, at East Liverpool, a rise in the Ohio to the 38-foot stage was expected today.

At Cincinnati the Ohio went beyond the 59.5-stage and continued rising slowly.

The Sandusky river covered lowlands in the Tiffin area and the Scioto overflowed in eastern Hardin and western Marion counties.

At Niles the Mahoning covered roads and tracks. Pennsylvania railroad trains were being rerouted over the B. & O. The water was 38 inches over the tracks in the eastern part of the city. At one point on the Niles-Mineral Ridge highway traffic was halted by water 40 inches deep.

Expects Crest Today

P. J. O'Connor, superintendent of the Warren waterworks filtration plant, said the crest was expected today. Gates at Milton dam were locked to retard the water as much as possible. Braceville school ten miles east of Warren was closed when roads became impassable.

The Sandusky river stood at 17 feet near Kenton and was rising about a half-inch an hour near its headwaters in the marshes 12 miles west of Kenton.

The Great Miami was up three to four feet at Dayton and two feet at Hamilton. A mile of lowland near Middletown was covered.

Several families in the Trumbull county lowlands left their flooded homes.

A few streets in the southern section of Warren were flooded. Many basements contained water.

In East Liverpool and Wellsville sickness increased and a second emergency hospital was opened. In the latter city 700 homes were flooded last week.

Christian Church
To Hold Campaign

The Christian church is holding special enlistment meetings this week in preparation for a church loyalty campaign. The campaign, scheduled to begin April 5, will last ten weeks. The service at 10:30 a. m. next Sunday morning will be an "every-member-present-service" at which time there will be a registration of members.

Last night members of the official board met at the church for enlistment. Other meetings which will be held are as follows: Tonight, Sunday school workers; 3 p. m. Thursday various women's groups; 7:30 p. m. Thursday, two groups of young people; 6:30 p. m. Friday a sauerkraut supper for the men. Various speakers have been secured for these meetings.

Tonight, the Sunday school workers will meet at 6:30 for a coverdish supper. The Farr class will have charge of serving the supper. Following the supper there will be an interesting program. Rev. Paul Kockley, minister of the Christian church, Girard, will be the guest speaker.

COLUMBUS, March 25.—State treasurer Harry S. Day said today collections from the sale of tax stamps for the week ending March 14 totaled $1,059,740, as compared to $948,447 for the week ending March 16, 1935.

START LISBON
PROJECT SOONContractors to Begin New Waterworks Plant In Ten Days

LISBON, March 25.—Construction of a new water works plant here at a cost of over $28,000 is expected to begin within the next 10 days, it was announced today by Ralph O. Rogers, secretary of the board of public affairs. Weather has delayed activity on this project, for which the federal government has "earmarked" $12,796.98.

Contracts for a new water main from the new plant on the Lisbon-Leetonia road and also plant building construction have been awarded the firm of Gallagher & O'Hara of Youngstown.

Some construction equipment is to be shipped here from Warren, but because of the "load limit" now in effect on state and county highways, special permission must be obtained to transport heavy equipment.

Engineering work on this project has been completed by the Woodward Co. of Leetonia, and approved by both state and federal authorities.

Pipe for the new water main has not been delivered here, and building material has not arrived at the site, which is east of the fairgrounds and in the heart of the present well system.

The meeting was presided over by Olin Shoor, chairman of the southwest Scout district. Invocation was given by Rev. Kramer.

Troop No. 79—Jack Brennan, Bob Rinehart, Dean Barber, Earl Mather, Harvey Thompson, Lewis Borton, David Long, Delmar Court, Buell Carpenter and Leonard Borton.

Troop No. 73—Billy Schenk, Phillip Herold, John Fahnert, Ted Baumgartner and Chester Burt.

Six Damascus Scouts were winners in a strength contest. They are: Jack Brennan, Bob Rinehart, Dean Barber, Lewis Borton, Carl Mather and Harvey Thompson.

Scoutmaster Dimit of Sebring, assisted by his boys, gave a demonstration depicting the stages through which a Scout advances from the tenderfoot class.

Get Tips On Love
By Dayton Lecturer

(By Associated Press)

BLUFFTON, March 25.—The time must come, Dr. Frank Slutz, Dayton lecturer, told Bluffton college students, "when it will be as much the girl's duty as the man's to say 'I love you' first."

Discussing problems of courtship before students in the college's marriage course, Dr. Slutz said he was "strong for the dutch treat" because it "teaches the young lady how to appreciate what the young man is up against."

Ideal marriage age? For women, 22 to 26 for men, 25 to 28.

Dr. Slutz frowned on long engagements and said the period should be only sufficient to settle various problems before entering into marriage and "never carry unsettled things into marriage."

Stressing the difference between courtship and acquaintanceship, he said "courtship is the thinning out of acquaintanceship and it is a compliment to our complex psychology."

"There is no truth in the statement that there is one and only one boy for a girl and a girl for a boy, but there is only one type. What type a person should have for his mate is one of man's most important questions."

WPA POLITICS

Party, Is Rule

LISBON, March 25.—Political activity among WPA workers in Ohio is "positively prohibited," according to State WPA Administrator Carl Watson. Notices to this effect are now being posted on all WPA projects in this county by County WPA Manager Frank W. Chambers.

The notices read:

"No person who is a candidate for elective office or holds an elective office may serve in a supervisory capacity and continue at the same time on the administration of operating staff, whether compensated from administrative funds or project grants."

"No employee of the Works Progress Administration, either administrative or engaged on a project, is required to make any contribution to any political party."

"No Works Progress Administration employee's job will be in jeopardy because of the failure of said employee to make such contribution."

"No employee of the Works Progress Administration shall at any time collect contributions for any political party and evidence of such solicitation will be cause for immediate discharge. The question of whether or not to contribute to any political party is a matter entirely for the voluntary decision of said employee."

"No person shall be employed or discharged by the WPA on the ground of his support or non-support of any candidate of any political organization."

'Pseudo-Liberalism', Term
Applied To Policies
Of New DealCLEVELAND HEARS
OHIOAN'S ADDRESSCalls for G.O.P. Platform Condemning the "Rubber Dollar"(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, March 25.—Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati defended the Ohio Republican "favorite son" plan and termed policies of the new deal "pseudo-liberalism" last night as he opened his speaking campaign for delegates to the Republican national convention.

He said the Republican platform "must promise a sound and stable currency, and openly condemn the rubber dollar which Mr. Gannett, Senator Borah's running mate, openly supports."

Taft addressed the Cuyahoga County League of Republican Clubs at Cleveland Heights High school auditorium.

Borah Annoyed
"Senator Borah," he said, "seems to be annoyed because a slate of delegates has been presented with an Ohio candidate. It would be nice for him, of course, if there were no slate before the people of Ohio except his own."

"He complains because the other candidates have not entered the Ohio primary, but if five or six candidates entered slates of delegates, somebody with a minority of support could select all the delegates."

"I regard myself as representing the viewpoints of the other candidates—gentlemen who are against the new deal and who do not share Senator Borah's views."

Taft said he felt that it was proper that candidates opposed to Senator Borah who did not enter the primary should have some representation through his own candidacy.

Asked whether he was a candidate for the nomination, Taft replied:

"Yes, but what the chances for winning the nomination may be I do not pretend to know. I think, however, my chances are as good as Senator Borah's."

Again, Taft asserted that President Roosevelt would not be willing to confer the term of liberal on Borah's chief backers in Ohio.

The Republican national platform, Taft said, "must insist first, as a condition of any progress, on a return to those liberal principles of democratic government, of individual initiative, of sound currency and sound finance, which have governed this country in the past."

Must Condemn Changes

WIN OR LOSE

The Goodyear strike in Akron, forced to a settlement after all employees had endured five weeks of forced idleness, is hailed by strikers as a victory for United Rubber Workers. Management, on its part, though not claiming victory, obviously is not conceding the union's victory claim either.

If the outcome really was a triumph for the union, it was an exceedingly costly one. Upward of 12,000 employees lost their wages for five weeks, and Akron lost income in virtually the same amount. Rents have accumulated. Grocers and other merchants either extended credit or lost business. The direct loss in wages alone, not counting the company's loss, was upward of two million dollars.

It will be a year or more until employees are able to overcome the handicap of lost wages. Since the strike brought no increase in wages, it produced no direct benefit. Employees who were not in sympathy with the strike naturally will remain resentful of what seems to them to have been an imposition on their right to work. The union made no gain in popularity with non-sympathizers.

For many years it has been pointed out that the strongest argument against international warfare is its failure to pay for itself. The territory and concessions which the victor wrests from the loser never are equal to the tremendous cost of carrying on the conflict. Is it possible that organized labor's use of the strike as a method of industrial warfare is subject in many cases to the same grave defect? Certainly, the circumstances of the Goodyear strike suggest that the direct cost to labor was far greater than the concessions upon which a settlement finally was reached.

FASCIST ITALY GOES FASCIST!

The un-fascist nature of Italy's fascism has long been the butt of scholarly jest. Painstakingly, political scientists have pointed out that if any new concept of government characterizes fascism, it is that of the corporative state. Yet, since the march on Rome in 1922, Benito Mussolini's government has done little to bring the new form into being.

Apparently, however, fascism is about to become fascism. The corporative ship of state is about to be launched. In a fiery speech commemorating the 17th anniversary of the Fascist party's founding, Premier Mussolini has proclaimed materialization of the corporative dream—that is, just as soon as the Ethiopian war is over and other conditions are favorable.

Employers, employees and the state will be welded into one presumably non-political organization dedicated to the fascist concept—supremacy of the state. The basis of the state, as in Russia, will lie in the local communes, which will feed streams of delegates to provincial, inter-provincial and finally national syndicates.

The principle underlying the corporative state differs radically from the Stalinist ideology of evolving labor solidarity through class warfare. Fascism stresses the community of interest between employer and employee and their mutual obligation to serve the state. Moreover, in contrast to the one-time American idea of government as a benevolent policeman, fascism holds that the state is the source of all good, the object of primary devotion.

Perhaps keen witted professors will meet this drain on their humor reservoir by insisting that, be it ever so corporative, Italy still is run by one man in Rome—just as they have remained skeptical of the authenticity of the communistic Russian bear and even of the democratic American eagle. In the final analysis, things are what they are, not what they are called.

O. O. MCINTYRE
NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, March 25.—The two gentlemen who express New York's most pronounced ubiquitousness are Jules Glaenzer and Tippy Grey. In almost any part of the world—the South Seas, Singapore or the Arctic Circle—one is almost certain to see one or the other.

Glaenzer is super-salesman for a jewelry house. An out of the box fellow of meticulous shine. A thrower of magnificent parties who tip-toes about shushing noisy guests. A first nighter and almost invariably the first person to greet an arriving big-city from Hollywood or Europe.

Example of his omnipresence: I know a gentleman who will swear he saw Glaenzer at the same moment in two different trains pulling out of Albuquerque in opposite directions. Tippy Grey might easily be termed man-about-the-globe. He bobs up in the most unexpected places.

A fellow of varied talents, Grey has written several musical reviews for the Polles Bergere in Paris. He is an outstanding bob skedder at Saranac and has won trophies for skiing at St. Moritz. The last time I saw him he was moseying out of a neighborhood movie in the deep Bronx.

George White continues to display his almost childish zest for selling seats in the box office at his own show. He has been doing it for years and what was once thought a publicity dodo is now another of the theatre's traditions. He rarely misses the evening or matinee rush. It's his way of relaxing. Whereas others play bridge or golf, he gives his customers the O. O.

I've often thought the country-jakiest of the small town names was the one in Indiana once known as Tailholt. James Whitcomb Riley immortalized it. He had an early sweetheart living there, whom he used to visit. One of his poems carried the line: "The little town of Tailholt was good enough for me." After this was published the 125 outraged citizens petitioned Washington for a change of name. This was done and, as I recall, is now Hamilton Station. Incidentally, Tailholt is in the adjoining county from Bennett's Crossing, where Richard Bennett, the actor and father of the famous Bennett girls, was born. Tom Geraghty's whistle stop in Indiana is called Rush.

Bert Williams, I am told, employed a seasonal color tone gradation with his supply of hats. In the Spring he would appear with a pearl gray, in mid-summer a milk white, Indian summer a light tan, autumn a brown leaf effect and for deep winter a chocolate brown. The hat was his favorite wearing apparel and his only extravagance. He had them especially made in Philadelphia of the finest material procurable. The reason: He always had to wear a throw away cap sporting a flour ad. when a boy.

Then there is Bob Hague, the Standard Oil tanker tycoon who did so much to temper winds to the shorn Lambs during the depression. When a one-gallused boy, his combined hopes centered on owning a stem winding, silver case watch. Time after time by heroic saving he seemed on the verge of proud ownership. But something always happened. He was in his early 20's before he finally made the grade. Result: Today he probably has, outside the Morgan collection, the finest assortment of watches from all over the world individually owned. A small fortune has gone into his hobby.

Dexter Fellows contends that youthful frustration harvests the older crop of circus fans. He, over a period of years, discovers that kids who had to slip under the tent or tote water to the elephant are the dyed-in-wool patrons. I lean to his theory. I could as a boy always go to the circus. Today I care little for it. H. T. Webster and Clare Briggs had constant disappointments. Both became enthusiasts even to traveling with Ringlings a few weeks each year. And acting as clowns.

Nimble, the Boston pooch, is in the dog house today in the Hollywood manner. Since he got his talking to he has been crawling bellywise toward me in utter dejection, yowling low and plaintively. But I bestow the stern look that cringes editors and publishers. He may win me over—twice I felt myself slipping—but he's going to learn that dragging the southwest section of a pair of speckled hot zigzaggy pajamas into the hall and into the elevator filled with strange ladies is not cricket. No, sir, it's not playing the game.

The new gilt fluted special pier into which the Queen Mary will be warped is finished and waiting. A swank dock front night club hard-by is hoping to catch the late sailing hordes. The Normandie, too, is being slicked up for the battle of the barques. May the best boat win. Both of them make me sick—that is they would make me sick if I started out to take a few Atlantic swells with them. A skiff ride, indeed, in Central Park gives me the ork-orks.

Further progress toward adequate fire protection in the industrial section of the city was made Thursday afternoon when the service director held a conference with members of a special committee appointed last week to make an inspection of the water plant. The committee is concerned with planning the high pressure main from the pumping station to the flats in such a way that the shops not already supplied with sufficient water may be protected.

THE STARS SAY

For Thursday, March 26

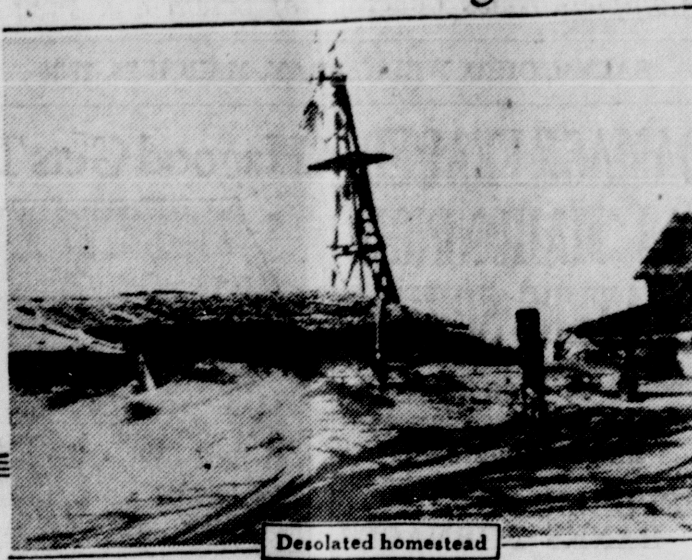

According to the lunar transits, this should be a fairly lively and satisfactory day. There will be a disposition to work hard and with much vim and determination to attain worthwhile results. This should assist the sound development of plans, the launching of meritorious undertakings, and the increase of possessions.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which much practical progress will be made in the development of cherished plans or the launching of new projects along constructive lines, with the probable co-operation of elderly persons or institutions.

A child born on this day may be capable, practical, diligent and trustworthy, having a keen mind and sound judgment.

New Storms Turning "Dust Bowl" Into Desert

Scenes such as these were enacted in six states as the first serious dust storms of 1936 swept through the midwestern "dust bowl" and threatened to turn the area into a desert. Sections of New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas were lashed by the stinging sand blasts as it hurried itself toward the Great Lakes. Frozen hard throughout a rainless winter, the soil is now thawed out and pulverized to a powder which the 40-mile gale swept up by tons. Scenes of desolation marked the newly devastated area which has not yet recovered from the "black rollers" of 1934.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Hives

Not so long ago I told you about asthma. It was pointed out that asthma was one of the effects of "allergy." "Allergy," I explained, is a term applied to that condition of abnormal sensitiveness to certain substances that an occasional individual possesses. Today I want to tell you about "hives," which is another manifestation of allergy.

The sufferer from occasional attacks of hives is sensitive to certain foods or to one food. In most instances the offending food is protein in its nature. Eggs and milk are rich in protein and that is why they are frequently found to be the exciting cause of hives. Of course, not all cases of hives are due to milk and eggs, because the average victim of hives is not necessarily allergic to these substances.

Bear in mind that the hives patient may be sensitive, not to things he eats, but to some material or substance with which he comes in contact. For example, an attack of hives may follow contact with silk, fur, animal dandruff, or one of many other things.

Some Causes
The person afflicted with hives first complains of a sudden and severe itching of the skin. This is soon followed by circular swellings, or "wheals" of the skin. As a rule they closely resemble the swellings caused by mosquito bites. At times they vary in size, number and location, and are not infrequently as big as a 50-cent piece.

In many an instance the sufferer learns that the attack can be avoided by omitting certain foods from the diet. As I have said, they are usually foods rich in protein substances. Sometimes trouble follows the eating of strawberries, blackberries, sea food and melons. These are liable to cause hives in persons who are sensitive or allergic.

Often the underlying cause of hives may be some center of infection within the body. For this reason you should make sure you are not harboring some infection in the teeth, nasal sinuses, tonsils or other organs liable to infection.

Great progress has been made in the use of certain "skin tests." A small amount of the suspected offending substance is injected into the skin. If it produces a wheal or swelling, it is said to have a "positive" reaction. If there is no such reaction, it is said to be "negative." The injections are continued, using different substances, until all the irritating substances are identified.

When they are determined upon, they must be eliminated from the diet, or the surroundings corrected so no contact is had with them. These tests are especially recommended for those stubborn cases of hives in which the cause is difficult to determine.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send addressed, stamped envelopes with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland in care of the newspaper at its main office in this city.

"DAUGHTERS OF VENUS"

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

SYNOPSIS

Juliet Rankin's pulchritude wins her an executive position in the beauty institute operated by wealthy Madame Hubert. At first, Thomas O'Hara, the handsome manager, is antagonistic toward Juliet, but he finally admits he is in love with her and has been trying to fight that feeling. Due to fatal resemblance to her dead sweetheart, Juliet submits to O'Hara's caresses. Finding them together, Dr. Franz Von Guerdon, beauty specialist, also in love with Juliet, is insanely jealous. He threatens to kill Juliet if she bothers with O'Hara, stating that she belongs to him. Later, Juliet tries to convince O'Hara that they do not love each other but were both overcome with emotion the night she permitted him to kiss her. He shows her an engagement and a wedding ring, saying: "Here's how much I meant it—up that I was!" Juliet is assigned to work with Von Guerdon. It is when he concentrates on his work, ignoring her, that Juliet likes him best.

CHAPTER XIII

"I wonder why a man of your ability wastes his time on facial surgery?" she asked him one afternoon.

"Perhaps it's because it makes so many people happy," he smiled. "You know of anything better than that?"

"Saving sick people's lives might be better," she hazarded.

"Pardon, but you're entirely wrong. There are ten thousand men who can perform an appendectomy with their eyes shut, but there are not more than three in the world who can make a woman of fifty look like thirty."

Perhaps there was a crushing answer somewhere in the universe to his argument, but Juliet at the moment could not think of it. All the same, she knew there was something hollow in his words and that he probably was jibing when he uttered them.

But any possible rejoinder was forestalled by the entrance of O'Hara followed by a poorly dressed girl who managed to give the impression she was trotting at his heels like an airedale.

O'Hara looked around over the wrong shoulder and missed sight of her. "Good Lord! Have I lost her?" he exclaimed.

"Here I am, Mr. O'Hara," piped a babyish voice, as she came around on the other side.

"Ah, there you are, indeed," said O'Hara, courteously. "Folks, I want you to meet Miss Kate Schmidt. She's been wandering around the place for a half hour, and wound up in my office instead of over here where she belongs. From what I gather, she wants to be beautiful."

Katie seemed to beam with gratitude towards O'Hara, but this may have been an illusion because one of her eyes was terribly crossed. Nor was this all—her nose was somewhat askew, her complexion mottled, and her long mouse-colored hair had a lamentable tendency to straggle at the ends.

Von Guerdon was as considerate of Katie Schmidt as though she were a dowager with Pekinese and chauffeur and her own limousine.

"Thank you kindly, Mr. O'Hara," said the girl.

"And thank you, Miss Schmidt," returned O'Hara politely. "I wish you'd look this young lady over, Dr. Von Guerdon, and see what is to be done about her."

"Delighted to do what I can for any friend of yours," returned Von Guerdon maliciously.

O'Hara looked the surgeon straight in the eye, ignoring Juliet as completely as though she were not in the room.

"That's right, Von Guerdon," he said levelly. "Miss Schmidt is a friend of mine, even though I have just had the honor of meeting her."

"Thank you kindly, Mr. O'Hara," said the baby voice again.

There they stood, two fairly decent and reasonably civilized men, glowering at each other like angry dogs, and all because the very presence of slim-ankled Juliet was sufficient to draw their nerves taut and set them strutting.

"It's all right, Mr. O'Hara," said Juliet, her eyes on bewildered Katie Schmidt. "I'll look after her."

For the first time O'Hara seemed to notice Juliet.

"I'll appreciate that, Miss Rankin," he said formally, and went out of the door before Katie had an opportunity to thank him very kindly again.

When O'Hara had gone, he it said to Von Guerdon's credit, he was as considerate of Katie Schmidt as though she were a dowager with Pekinese and chauffeur and her own limousine.

"Won't you sit down and tell us what you want?" he asked, but his crisp, professional air seemed to stiffen Katie Schmidt with an increased stupidity that left her round-eyed and speechless.

"Here, sit down by me," said Juliet encouragingly.

Stiffly the girl seated herself on the edge of the sofa.

"How much money will it cost," she popped out, "to do me over—like her?"

It was plain that "her" meant Juliet, and the baby voice had forfeited something of its infancy in favor of a rather startling brassy note.

Von Guerdon contracted his brows seriously.

"You mean everything—the complete doing over? Not just a touch here and there?"

Then Katie Schmidt burst into her idea.

"The whole works!" she declared fervently. "You can straighten eyes, can't yuh? Only one's crossed."

"We can fix that," Von Guerdon assured her.

"Noses, too?"

"I think so." He gave that twisted organ a keener glance. "Yes, but it's a delicate operation that takes time. It's expensive."

"It yuh can fix them two things, the rest is a cinch," said Katie. "I hear about these face peels. Yuh put on some kind of stuff that eats away the outside skin and the under-skin comes out pink and smooth like a baby's. You do that here?"

"Frequently," she was assured.

"Swell!" exclaimed Katie with mounting excitement in her face and voice. "The hair's nothing. I could almost do it myself but I want it done right. Platinumed—not bleached. Know what I mean? My teeth ain't so awful but they ain't straight and they need fillin'. Place where I worked, the lady had a porcelain jacket put on one of hers, and it was marvellous. I'd want yuh to put jackets clear across the front, top and bottom. Yuh won't have to do nothing to my finger, 'cause that's practically perfect already. Ought to see me in a bathing suit—yuh'd be surprised."

Von Guerdon's expression was not hopeful.

"I see," he murmured, thinking of the cost.

The girl clasped her hands together and then unclasped them quickly. Rough, grimy little hands used to work.

For a minute nothing was said. As the silence in the room waited for someone to break it, the distorted gaze looked down at the carpet, then moved around, lifted no higher than the backs of the smart upholstered chairs, the standing bookcases, the opulent desk at the far end.

Juliet inspected the girl, so silent now, and she seemed like a small injured animal who had crept to them for help.

READ THE WANT COLUMN

"Well, I guess—" Katie Schmidt began, lifting her face slightly. "I guess it'll set me back a-plenty." Juliet sent an appealing glance to Von Guerdon but he shook his head. But when he spoke his voice was considerate.

"I'm quite sure, Miss Schmidt, you couldn't afford the fees we are forced to charge here. Only the rich class of people have such work done. None of these—alterations—are necessary for your general health, you know. If I were you I think I'd put the whole idea out of my head and cultivate some other interest. After all, beauty isn't everything. Friends, for example, are much more important."

Katie shot up to her feet with a rush of color under her murky skin. "Friends—don't make me laugh!" she shrieked. "I'd like to get rid of the ones I've got already. All I want to know is what will it cost? That's all—how much?"

Juliet dreaded to see the girl's disappointment. "If I were you," she said gently, "I believe I'd get more fun spending what I had on some real nice clothes."

"Miss Schmidt turned swiftly. "If you was me!" she jerked. "If you was me you'd soon see how it felt to look like I do! It's me that's got to look in the mirror every day of my darn life! I gotaz much right as anybody to be beautiful. It's nobody's business but my own. I ain't doin' this for any man. I'm doin' it to please nobody but my own lone-some self!"

The outburst left her panting slightly. Von Guerdon made a few quick notes on a pad of paper. "All right—here it is," he said shortly. "We couldn't undertake the work for less than three thousand dollars."

To his surprise Katie received the estimate unblinkingly.

"That includes the teeth and everything!" she asked shrewdly.

"I've included the dental work," he told her. "Now, the only question is—do you have three thousand dollars, Miss Schmidt?"

"No, I ain't," she said, the fire dying in her voice. "An' I never will have that much."

Without another word she crossed the room, opened the door, and disappeared into the obscurity from which she had come.

They Prove Hollywood Marriages Can Endure

"Hollywood marriages don't last," assert the wise-acs. But the number of well-known film colony couples whose marital course has traveled on without interruption through the years tends to disprove the point. Jimmy Gleason, cinema comic, has been married 29 years and has a son 25. Jean Hersholt of "Country Doctor" fame walked down the aisle 23 years ago and Eddy Cantor has been an attentive husband for 22 years, during which time he has acquired five daughters. Warner Baxter and Winifred Bryson have been married 21 years and Harold Lloyd, who chose his former leading lady for a wife 13 years ago, has found Mildred Davis most satisfactory for leading lady of his home. Two couples whose happiness seems to disprove the contention that film celebrities cannot marry happily are Franchot Tone and Joan Crawford, and Ruby Keeler and Al Jolson.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treats scores of women who suffered from constipation. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in the system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets at night for a week and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then—to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Mexico's Beauties Revealed In Travelers Club's Papers

The Salem Travelers club, meeting Tuesday afternoon in the assembly room of the public library, voted to contribute to the flood relief and the Community Chest funds. Mrs. G. E. Byers, incoming president of the club, was named as delegate to the federation convention in Toledo soon.

The club continued its study of Mexico, hearing papers on Mexican gardens, Mexican plants for American gardens, Mexican arts and handicrafts and Mexico City.

Mrs. William Silver read as her paper on Mexican gardens an article written by Augustus Price Hudson, who lived for some time in that country. The author described many of the beautiful ancient gardens, which surrounded the Spanish conquests when they arrived. The article said that an Aztec emperor, who died 40 years before the conquest, was probably the first advocate of forest conservation, placing certain rules and restrictions on the cutting or using of trees. Mrs. Silver named many of the most beautiful gardens still in existence, although built centuries ago.

Mrs. Metzger's paper on Mexican plants for American gardens described the climate and soil conditions of the country, pointing out that while it sometimes is 120 degrees in the day, the temperature drops to 50 degrees at night. She pointed out that most of the Mexican plants can be grown here with proper care. Mrs. Metzger named the dahlia, marigold and zinnia among other flowers which have been received from Mexico. She described a number of the more common Mexican plants which are suited to this climate, the wild flowers and shrubs.

Mrs. Sapp's paper on Mexican arts and handicrafts was a description of the kind of painting and handwork done by the people. Much of the painting is mural work. Silver handwork is an important handicraft, Mrs. Sapp said.

A paper on Mexico City, given by Mrs. H. K. Yagel, concluded the program. Mexico City is built on a plateau 7,350 feet above sea level. It is one of the most interesting cities of the world and is much like other large places, having manufacturing firms, beautiful homes, paved streets and modern shops and hotels. The city has 61 large cathedrals and the finest palace of art in the world. The 150 manufacturing establishments of the city are occupied mainly with the making of furniture, glass, leather goods, jewelry and lace.

The next meeting of the club, March 31, will be a social meeting at the library. Dr. Launcelot Packer of Cleveland is scheduled to address the club at that time.

UNITED FAVOR for the DIVIDED SKIRT

CULOTTE MODELS ARE POPULAR AT WINTER . . RESORTS . .

By MARIE MAROT

THE mode isn't at all divided on the question of the divided skirt or culotte. On the contrary, this fashion has received unanimous indorsement and acclaim. Seen much at Deauville, Le Touquet and along the Riviera last summer, this type of skirt is a favored garment at Florida resorts right through the day. And no wonder, when one realizes the ease and comfort of the divided skirt plus its kindness to the difficult figure, as well as its becoming silhouette to all types. Here we have a couple of culotte costumes. The one at left is in blue and white printed cotton with a red and white cotton scarf-belt. It is a neat two-piece model. The other costume consists of a navy jersey culotte with a drop-thread stamped cotton shirt that has a belt in front and a peplum in back. It is a neat outfit for general day-time wear.

Honesty Rewarded

MARION, March 25.—Harmon Gilmore, 16, enjoyed the material dividends of honesty today.

He found a purse a few days ago containing $484, and entrusted it with a Marion factory president until the owner could be found. Mrs. Emma Mehaffey claimed purse and money and gave Gilmore $30 reward. The factory president gave him a job.

HOME MAKING HELPS

HERE'S A BATCH of household hints many of which are in answer to queries.

Many letters have been received asking about the home dyeing of black articles. It seems that while other colors come out satisfactorily, black is so often a failure, even when directions are followed faithfully. That rusty tinge may be avoided and good results obtained if one uses a packet of dark navy blue dye and one packet of the black dye, dissolving the dyes as directed and then mixing the two thoroughly. See if this doesn't work and give a lovely black.

Other queries dealt with linen, its selection and care. First of all, may we caution you again, as we have done many times before, against buying linen in any but a reputable store, avoiding so-called "bargains." It is so easy to offer bargains in linens, for two pieces of linen may look exactly alike—smooth and white and even. But when you hold them up to the light, there is a striking difference. Good linen examined in this way shows smooth, round, even threads; it will be free from any thickened lumps or threads. Next, linen is more absorbent than cotton. If you apply a moistened finger to linen, the moisture should show through to the other side of the fabric very rapidly.

Other Linen Hints

While most of us like bleached linen because of its sheen and snowy whiteness, it is wisest to select the three-quarter bleached linen if we are looking for long, good wear. This type of linen is rather creamy in tint. After all, bleaching is a burning process that is apt to have a weakening effect. Therefore, unbleached linen which is of natural color is the strongest of all.

A reader very kindly sends another recipe dealing with the removal of ink stains from a linen tablecloth. Let the ink remain until dry. Then rub it all over with a good-sized mashed tomato. Leave it on the cloth and then have it washed in the ordinary way. The cloth should look as good as new after the laundering.

Another linen hint deals with those linens and crasches used for embroidering tray cloths and the like. It is a good plan to wash this fabric before starting any work on it. Soak overnight in cold water, dry and iron flat before applying transfers or embroidery.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeanette Young Norton

WHILE CHERRY PIE is a favorite with many folk, we don't think that the ruddy, flavory cherry has the importance it deserves in the epicurean world. Cherry pie is all very well, but there are other cherry dishes much more unusual and just as tasty.

Gingerbread or plain cake will be all the better if served to the accompaniment of a swell red cherry sauce. Put into a saucepan one tablespoon cornstarch, quarter cup sugar and a few grains of salt. Stir in one cup of juice drained from a can of red cherries. Stir over direct heat until mixture boils. Then add one tablespoon lemon juice and if necessary, more sugar to taste. Pour over cake and garnish with whole canned cherries.

Cherry Fritters
For rice and cherry fritters, combine one and a half cups of hot steamed rice with one well-beaten egg, two-thirds of a cup canned sour pitted cherries and two tablespoons butter, mixing well. Pour in shallow pan and allow to stand until cool. Then cut layer into equal portions large enough to mold into croquettes. Roll croquettes in fine, dry bread or cracker crumbs, then in beaten egg, then again in cracker crumbs. Fry in deep hot oil until golden brown. When done drain on unglazed paper. Roll in powdered sugar and serve warm with a sauce.

Something different to serve with the meat course is always in demand. Here is the answer in the form of a spiced cherry relish. Take four allspice berries, four whole cloves and one two-inch stick of cinnamon in small cloth. Combine with two cups sour pitted cherries and quarter cup vinegar and bring to the boil; then simmer for ten minutes. Remove spice ball and strain. Add enough warm water or liquid to make one pint. Dissolve one package strawberry gelatin in the warm liquid. Chill. When slightly thickened, turn in the cherries. Turn into ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve as a relish with poultry, lamb or pork.

Paul McCullough

Famous Comedian, Dies In Hospital

(By Associated Press)

MEDFORD, Mass., March 25.—Paul McCullough, 52, of Brockline, radio, screen and stage comedian, and a member of the widely known team of Clark and McCullough, died at Lawrence Memorial hospital today.

Hospital officials said he died of wounds suffered Monday when he slashed himself with a razor in a Medford barber shop.

McCullough, with a friend, had entered the shop for a shave. Patrolman John Mills said, The comedian grabbed a razor, the officer added, and before he could be subdued had slashed his throat, wrists and arm.

He was enroute at the time from a hospital, where he had been treated for a nervous breakdown, to his home.

Bobby Clark, McCullough's partner, and McCullough were born in Springfield, Ohio, went on the stage together 30 years ago, and had teamed together since. They comprised one of the oldest comedy teams in point of service in the country.

What's Happened to Hollywood Stars?

Marlene Dietrich Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers

What lies back of the difficulties film moguls are having with many of their topnotch stars? That is the question which Hollywood is asking itself since half a dozen celluloid celebrities have rebelled at movie production methods. Grace Moore, Marlene Dietrich, James Cagney, George Raft, Greta Garbo and Fred Astaire are among the headliners who have mutinied. Astaire is even reported to have turned down the major share of $1,000,000 offered the Astaire-Rogers team for four pictures. Two factors probably account for the "star trouble". For one thing, the headliners are now more conscious of the artistic values which must be observed if their box office appeal is maintained. They object to being exploited by having to rush through one picture after another and are more wary about their stories than were the stars of yesteryear, since they realize that one or two bad scenarios will "kill" them. And modern production methods, requiring long rehearsals, memorizing of lengthy scripts, and infinite painstaking under the searing Klieg lights make the lot of a film star no easy one. It is nerves and fatigue more than temperament which contribute to the frequent breakdowns of the stars. All of which explains in part why the movie moguls are finding that even huge salaries cannot always quiet the protests of their best box office bogs or keep them from being lured away by the English studios of Alexander Korda, who is becoming a serious rival to Hollywood.

Pottery Cagers Defeat Columbians To Win Class A Title

Baptists Triumph Over Methodists In Class B Championship Play-Off

Inaccuracy At Foul Line Costs Columbians Victory In Class A Tilt; Third Game Will Be Played In Class B Series

Coach Ray Reasbeck's Columbian cagers have passed out of the championship picture in the Class A city basketball league.

Inaccuracy at the foul line in the second game of the senior league's championship series at the Memorial building last night sent the Columbians down to a 30 to 27 defeat and gave the Pottery basketekers undisputed rights to the 1935-36 title of the Class A loop.

The Reasbeck coached cagers were offered 12 chances to score on free throws during the contest but on all but one of these opportunities they failed. The Pottery completed eight out of 19 foul shots.

The Columbians, who lost out in the first game of the series, 27 to 24, took the lead, four to one, at the close of the first period and by half time they had increased their advantage 10 to 5.

Battling against almost hopeless odds, the Pottery laid whittled the Columbians' edge down to 25 to 14, by the end of the third period and then continued in the final frame with a scoring spree that brought 16 points and sent them on to the victory. The Columbians were limited to two points in the final frame.

The contest marked the close of the Class A league season. Two rounds were played during the loop campaign with the Columbians as winner of the first half and the Pottery, new champion of the league, as top team in the last half.

The Class B championship series came down to even terms last night as the Baptists avenged defeat in the first game by soundly trouncing the Methodists, 36 to 12.

The third and deciding game of the Class B series will be played at the Memorial building tonight along with another contest between the Class C All-Stars and the Christians, champions of the Class C loop.

The Baptist passers led throughout the contest last night. They were out in front, 7 to 1, at the close of the first, 12 to 2, at the intermission and 22 to 6 at the end of the third frame.

In the preliminary contest last night, the Columbia St. grade school team defeated the "Mickey McGuire" league All-Stars, 37 to 14. The Columbia cagers won the championship of the "McGuire" league this season.

TWO FAVORED IN GOLF MEET

Veteran and Schoolgirl Look Best In Women's Augusta Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 25.—A thoroughly seasoned campaigner and a schoolgirl champion emerged as the players to beat for the Augusta women's invitational golf title as play entered the quarter finals today.

Mrs. Maureen Orecuti Crews, former champion from Miami, and Miss Dorothy Kirby, 16-year-old state titleholder from Atlanta, moved into the favorites' spots after defeat halted such stars as Miss Marion Miley, defending champion from Lexington, Ky., Miss Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I., girl and Miss Kathryn Hemphill, Columbia, S. C.

Miss Crews eliminated Miss Isabel Ogilvie, of Augusta, 5 and 4, yesterday. Today she opposes Miss Barbara Bourne, an Augustan who joined the form players by defeating Miss Miley, one-up.

Miss Kirby's rival today is Miss Jane Cotran of Greenville, S. C. The Atlantan stopped Mrs. A. Millea of Wilmington, Del., 3 and 2, while Miss Cotran was forced to go 19 holes to beat Mrs. Charles Foreman of Chicago.

Miss Edith Beggs, of Cleveland, won two-up from Miss Hamphill, Peggy Wattles of Buffalo, nosed out Miss Bauer in 19 holes.

Olympic Diving Contender at 12

Katherine Rawls

Mary Hoeger

MIAMI, Fla., March 24.—Instinct more than science or skill, is the outstanding factor in training a national low spring-board diving champion, according to Mrs. Frances Hoeger, of Miami, mother of little Mary Hoeger, 12-year-old diving wonder.

It was instinct, Mrs. Hoeger claims, that last year enabled her daughter to create the biggest upset in water sports of the year when she carried off the women's national A. A. U. lowboard diving championship in competition with the nation's finest women aquatic stars, including Dorothy Poynton, 1932 Olympic champion.

What's more, Mrs. Hoeger is not speaking merely as a fond parent and a prodigal child. Mrs. Hoeger herself is a former diving champion and she well knows the arduous trail of training that leads to water championships.

Instinct Guides Actions
It is no doubt true that the 12-year-old champion probably gets a good share of her grit and courage from her mother—Mrs. Hoeger once having paddled a canoe from St. Louis to New Orleans—and it wasn't just a publicity stunt!

Still, in spite of the increasing success of her protegee, Mrs. Hoeger is alarmed. Mary is growing up and growth means changes. In Mrs. Hoeger's category, change is always for the worse, increased stature and weight both acting to disturb a diver's sense of balance.

Right now, Mrs. Hoeger's greatest concern is keeping the "champ" in top condition for the Olympic competition this year.

Day after day, Mary's mother and mentor watches carefully while the champion goes through her routine. And while Mary concentrates on jackknife, Gainer and flip and back dives, Mrs. Hoeger keeps one eye on her champion and the other on the rest of her lot of little Hoegers.

BASEBALL STILL HOLDS ITS OWN

Good Sign Is Growth of Minor Leagues In Small Cities

ST. LOUIS, March 25.—The national pastime is holding its own.

In the opinion of Judge William G. Bramham, president of the National Minor League Baseball association, there has been no decline in baseball interest in the smaller communities of the country, either on the part of spectators or of boys wishing to enter the game professionally.

Perhaps the healthiest sign about the minor league situation, Bramham said here yesterday, is the growth in the number of leagues in the lower classifications, that is Class C and D, which are the kindergartens of baseball.

There are four or five Class D leagues being formed now and of the 25 or more minor circuits, all but seven are in the three lower groups, B, C and D, he said.

Last year there were 2,000 players signed to first year contracts and there has been no decrease in the number of young men seeking to enter baseball this season, according to Bramham.

"Night baseball," he said "proved the salvation of many small leagues during the depression period."

ABC COMMITTEE TO MEET TODAY

Will Pass On Resolutions Proposed by Various Bowling Members

INDIANAPOLIS, March 25.—The executive committee of the American Bowling Congress went into session today to pass on resolutions proposed throughout the current season by various players.

The committee's report will be acted upon at the annual meeting of the ABC delegates Friday afternoon.

Among the proposals to be offered is one suggesting that cities not be eligible to bid for a tourney if they have had one within an eight year period. Another will ask that the booster division be thrown open to the entire country rather than just the host state while still a third suggests that the booster division be done away with entirely.

"Cincinnati night" will be observed at the tournament with 32 teams from the Ohio city taking the alleys.

Their first appearance in ABC competition failed to disturb Refining Company team from Enid, Okla., last night, the quietest rolled into second place in the five man standings with 2,911 Winslow. Gars of Pekin, Ill., were shoved back to third.

Dessen is impressed by Johnny Burnett's work. The Reds play their finale of the training series with the Bees today.

Charley Dessen Expects Reds to Top 2nd Division In League Race This Year

Except for Lombardi and Herman, Cincy Can't Count On Single Long Range Hitter; Pitching Should Be Tight

TAMPA, Fla., March 25.—Cincinnati's Reds started their 1936 baseball campaign from the floor of the Atlantic ocean but expect to wind up atop second division, at least, in the National league hemisphere.

Manager Charlie Dessen, the type of man who insists on progress, can't miss this year. When he took his players to Puerto Rico, he let them go deep sea diving the first few days.

"With a start like that," Dessen figured, "there's only one direction to go. That's up. I'm not talking a pennant for Cincinnati this year because we probably can't overpower such clubs as the Cubs, Cardinals, Giants and Pirates, but we should top the second division."

Pitching Tight
Except for Catcher Ernie Lombardi and Outfielder Babe Herman, the Reds can't count on a single sure-fire long range hitter. However, the pitching and defense should be tight.

Paul Derringer, giant right hander who won 22 and lost 13 last year for the sixth place Bees, is the pitching ace of a staff that is filled with possibilities. With them are Gene Schott, winner of eight and loser of 11 in his first big league season last year; Al Hollingsworth, southpaw who displayed a world of stuff in '35, and Lee Stine, regarded as one of the best rookie mound prospects in baseball. Stine won 18 and lost 11 with the second division St. Paul club of the American association last year.

Bottomline Gone
Except for the departure of Sunny Jim Bottomley, the Reds still start out with their same 1935 pony infield with Alex Kampouris at second, Bill Myers at short and Lee Rigs at third. The battle for Bottomley's first base job is hot between George McQuinn from Newark and Lester Searcella, obtained from Wilmington. Lombardi and Hank Erickson give the Reds a capable catching duo.

The outfield at the start probably will be Sammy Byrd, Kiki Cuyler and Herman, who still is a holdout. Calvin Chapman, a 155 pounder and Ival Goodman have excellent chances of sending veterans like Cuyler and Herman to the bench.

ANOTHER DEAN ENDS HOLDOUT

Elmer Comes Through To Sign As Peanut Vendor At Houston Park

HOUSTON, Tex., March 25.—Elmer Dean, the last hold-out among the Dean brothers, has signed. Elmer, whose kid brothers, Jerome (Dizzy) and Paul (Daffy) came to terms a few days ago with the St. Louis Cardinals, stepped from the hold-out ranks yesterday and signed a contract as peanut vendor at the Houston Texas League park this summer.

Elmer is a perennial tryout with the Houston club. This spring he sought a berth but President Fred Annenman did not have a uniform that would fit him. Not to be outdone by a little thing like a uniform, Elmer shagged files several days in his "Sunday clothes."

"I," Elmer said, "could show die Diz and Paul something about baseball if you'd give me a chance."

change that system, but it must present measures to cure the abuses which that system has developed.

"It must insist on free and open competition and the principles of the Sherman act."

"It must support old age pensions and relief to the needy in a non-political, economic manner, with the administration decentralized and in charge of local administrators."

"It must support a control of banking and stock exchange activities, to prevent excessive inflation and devaluation of credit."

"It must offer the exporting farmer compensation against the protection which industry receives."

wealth by fiat.

The "favorite son" candidate declared the new deal was willing to sacrifice every true principle in principle, purporting to benefit the average man by conferring wealth upon him by government fiat.

Asserting that another four years of the new deal might lead to complete government control of industry, Taft said: "Government regulation of all prices would lead inevitably to a complete Socialistic state in which the average man would do as he was told by government officials."

"This is not progress; this is reaction to the days of feudalism."

"It is bad enough for the new dealers to spend money without regard to income, but there is an element of fraud when they try to convince the people they are getting something for nothing."

The fact is that the worker himself is bound to pay for this light-hearted spending."

Theater Attractions

"Muss 'Em Up," a new type of detective story, comes to the State Thursday only. Preston Foster, remembered for his characters in "Pompeii," plays a straight role, the lead. The featured players are Margaret Callahan, Alan Mowbray, Ralph Morgan and Maxie Rosenbloom.

Story of Murder

The screen play is based on the novel, "The Green Shadow" by James Edward Grant and concerns a baffling murder. Foster is the private detective who solves the case. Self-assured and cunning, the investigator arrives in a California city, summoned from his New York agency to investigate some mysterious letters received by a former client a wealthy banker.

A great deal of the action takes place in the trophy room and private shooting gallery of the banker.

er's home. In rapid succession the banker's dog is shot, his ward is kidnapped and two chauffeurs are killed under mysterious circumstances.

Margaret Callahan plays the role of the banker's secretary who is implicated in the murder. Alan Mowbray plays the banker, Molly Lamont his daughter, Ralph Morgan, the banker's brother-in-law, and Florine McKinney the ward.

Double Bill Ends Tonight
The double feature bill with a Van Dine mystery and a comedy drama is showing at the State tonight for the last times. "The Garden Murder Case" stars Edmund Lowe in the role of Philo Vance, with Virginia Bruce playing a society girl with whom the great sleuth falls in love.

"Song and Dance Man," a story of hoofers and the big time, at one time was George M. Cohan's great stage success. On the screen, Paul Kelly plays the lead with Claire Trevor in support.

"Modern Times" will be shown at the Grand tonight and tomorrow night. This comedy is written, directed and starred in by Charlie Chaplin. It is his first picture in five years. Paulette Goddard is the leading lady.

VIEWS ON FARM PROGRAM DIFFER

Issue Draws Attention
As Possible Campaign Point

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The farm problem drew increasing attention today as a campaign talking point. One prominent Republican declared the government should refrain from telling growers what to plant, while a Roosevelt supporter asserted the President has the backing of farmers.

Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, continuing his drive for the Republican presidential nomination, outlined his views in a New York broadcast last night.

"What the government should not do," said Knox, "is to attempt to tell the farmer what to plant, how much to plant, and in general to run their business for them."

He listed efficient production, and the finding of domestic and foreign markets as essential points of a program.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, said the Republicans can offer no effective opposition to the President in the western farm belt because "they don't have a farm program."

He declared there was "no question about" farm support for Mr. Roosevelt.

The agricultural question also was touched upon yesterday by Senator Steiwer (R., Ore.) at Raleigh, N. C., where state Republicans mapped plans for a campaign they said was "to save America from the new deal."

The program he put forth was: A nation-wide land conservation plan both permanent and practical, a guarantee that the American producer shall enjoy the American market to the extent of his ability to supply that market, government aid in disposing of farm surpluses, and lower interest rates on farm mortgages.

Henry Ford voiced sharp criticism of crop curtailment as a violation of natural laws.

"If the farmers allow land to lie idle, they'll suffer," he said. He added the opinion that financiers are interested in crop control to keep prices up.

The constitutional debate was contained in a speech by Donald R. Rickberg, former NRA administrator, who declared that "there is no conflict between the new deal and the Constitution."

"If it be an assault on the Constitution to advocate a debatable law," said Rickberg, "then every notable politician and every eminent lawyer, and every distinguished judge... has been guilty."

Buildings Evacuated As Pittsburgh Hears Gas
Leak Report

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, March 25.—The crest of a new flood, small in comparison with the watery avalanche that spread devastation in the steel capital a week ago, inundated streets of neighboring lowland towns along the Monongahela river today.

Workers evacuated several buildings in the lower downtown "golden triangle" after reports of a gas leak spread. National guardsmen patrolled the area. Police officials reported a slight explosion blew up a man-hole cover but that there was no danger of gas accumulating in the area.

Expect Crest Tonight
Weather bureau officials forecast the crest of the Monongahela would reach Pittsburgh by midnight, flooding lowlands and basements in the triangle which was hit heavily by last week's devastation.

Pittsburgh's reconstruction program moved forward, little affected by the latest rampage, which threatened to put streets of the north side under water again and to back water through sewers into the cellars of some downtown business buildings.

Weather Observer W. S. Brotzman predicted a peak of 32 feet—seven feet above flood stage—would be reached by the river at "the point" where the Monongahela meets the Allegheny and forms the Ohio. This would be far short of the disastrous 45.9 foot stage last week.

Allegheny Rises
Melting mountain snows in northwest Pennsylvania also caused a steady rise in the Allegheny river, but rivermen said the Allegheny's high waters would reach Pittsburgh after the Monongahela begins to recede.

The overflowing Monongahela flooded parts of Fayette City, Monessen, and McKeesport.

English Cabinet Deliberates Over Hitler Treaty Rejection

(Copyright, 1936, By The Associated Press)

LONDON, March 25.—Adolf Hitler's rejection of the Locarno proposals, tightening the European crisis over German occupation of the Rhineland, was deliberated by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's cabinet today at its regular weekly meeting.

Sir Thomas Inskip, Britain's new minister for defense coordination, attended the meeting for the first time as a full member of the cabinet.

French Minister of State Joseph Paul-Boncour visited Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at the foreign office for a last minute conference before flying this afternoon to Paris.

Hitler's refusal to withdraw his forces from the Rhineland or to accept a judgment by the world court in Germany's argument against the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance pact threw the Rhineland negotiations back to the Locarno powers.

The councilors of the League of Nations, after days of waiting for the word from Der Fuehrer left London, putting up to Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and the other Locarno diplomats the task of finding a way out of the new, greater impasse.

With the departure of the league council, informed sources said, the first phase of the international crisis—reassertion of the sanctity of treaties, coupled with condemnation of Germany for its Rhineland occupation in violation of the Locarno pact—was past.

A long, difficult series of negotiations, which informed persons said might yet mean peace or war for millions, was foreseen authoritatively.

The action of the league council in adjourning indefinitely, just as Joachim Von Ribbentrop arrived yesterday with a personal message from Hitler to the British government, giving an advance summary of Germany's reply to the Locarno proposals, was interpreted as a slap at Hitler for his delay in answering.

The council, executive body of the league, will re-convene in its usual headquarters at Geneva, sometime after the Reichstag election and France's parliamentary elections April 26.

OPEN PROBE IN A. T. & T. LOANS

Testimony Before Commission Details Intricate Transactions

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Testimony detailing intricate transactions through which American Telephone and Telegraph Co. subsidiaries passed out millions of dollars in loans to motion picture interests was given today to the communications commission.

Samuel Meisels, assistant accountant of the FCC investigation of A. T. & T. testified regarding advances to the Fox theatres Corp. and other film interests.

Later, Samuel Becker, special FCC counsel, planned a study of A. T. & T. activities in financing the production of "moonlight and pretzels" and other motion pictures.

In his testimony, Meisels traced a $15,000,000 loan by electrical research products, Inc., to Fox theatres corp., in 1929. Enpl, he said, borrowed the money from Western Electric Co., of which it was a subsidiary. On the same day, the A. T. & T. advanced $12,000,000 to Western Electric.

A. T. & T. records, Meisels testified, contained "no information" as to why the loan was not made directly by Western Electric or by the telephone company, rather than through Enpl.
